

Photography Shot List

For your photographer — organised by priority and use across the site

1 — THE SIGNATURE PORTRAIT

Soft natural light, face visible

Warm, present, looking at or past camera. Not posed — like someone caught you mid-thought.

Looking away, grounded

Window light, natural setting. Introspective energy — the 'this is the work' shot.

Full body, soft and relaxed

Standing or seated. Approachable — the whole person, not just face.

2 — HANDS AT WORK

Hands hovering in Reiki

Close-up over a surface or implied client. Intentional, still, warm light.

Holding a crystal

Loose grip, natural. Rose quartz or amethyst catches light well. Earthy and grounded.

Writing or journalling

Mid-flow. A real notebook, not styled. Tea nearby optional. Very connective energy.

Laying cards

Oracle or tarot spread mid-read. Hands in motion. Mystical but grounded.

3 — IN THE SPACE

Your space or altar setup

Real and lived-in, not overly styled. Candles, crystals, a plant — the environment you work in.

You with a cup of tea

Morning, cosy, quiet. The off-duty psychic. Feels personal and intimate.

Candle bokeh, you blurred behind

Atmospheric. Works as a background image across multiple website sections.

Walking in nature, dappled light

Loose, unposed. The grounded and present energy. Could double as a quote background.

Seated outside, golden hour

Warm light, eyes closed or gazing softly. Meditative — very 'this is the frequency' energy.

NOTES FOR YOUR PHOTOGRAPHER

Lighting	All shots should use warm, soft, natural or candlelight. Avoid harsh flash, clinical whites, or overly bright backgrounds.
Edit direction	Warm tones, slightly underexposed rather than blown out. Consistent with the site palette: deep greens, cream, rose.
Outfit	Earth tones or deep jewel tones. Avoid white or black — neither reads well against the site backgrounds.
Tip	If you only have time for one set: prioritise a signature portrait (soft natural light, face visible) + hands holding a crystal. Those two images alone would cover every gap on the current site.
